

« What a wonderful experience:

I participated to many MUN before HMUN, but It was the first time that I found myself in a committee with 250 delegates.

It was a real challenge to speak to such a big assembly and negotiations were hard considering the large number of delegates.

Leadership and diplomacy skills were obviously needed to convince the most delegates possible to join my bloc of delegations and vote for my resolutions.

Sessions lasted eight hours each day and sometimes until 11:30 of the evening! I had therefore the time to get to know better the delegates of my committee and soak up their culture.

They came from all around the world and I felt like I was traveling every time one of my new friends talked to me about his country.

HMUN was a wonderful educational but also human experience that I will probably never forget! »
